

N. D. Birding Society - ABA Field Notes Spring Report Form
August 1 to November 30, 2008

GENERAL COMMENTS:

A fairly lackluster season with low numbers of everything from the beginning to end of the checklist. Despite the late mild weather, lingering birds did not hang around. After a 2 year drought in the northeast, but the fall season brought heavy rains to make some say it is the wettest ever in the Grand Forks area. The same was true with the central part of the state. The weather was quite mild with one snow event the first weekend of November bringing in the winter abruptly. In the west, the 15 month drought is over. During that period, wild fruit was non-existent and the stock dams went dry. The fall brought in warmer than usual temperatures, and much needed moisture to the region. One other factor not talked about much is the price of gas. At the beginning of the season, gas topped out at $4.07/gallon. The price of gas limited the birding activity for many individuals. By the end of the fall season, the price had dipped below $2.00, nearing the lowest prices since 2004.

MOST IMPORTANT OBSERVATIONS:

In the waterfowl category, a male Barrow's Goldeneye was found in McHenry county. A Northern Shelduck was photographed in Fargo. On 28 Sept, an impressive flight of raptors, totaling 750 birds passed over Long Lake NWR. Also at Long Lake NWR, for the second year in a row hosted (4) nesting Snowy Plovers, with an individual observed in August. In the Larid category, a Mew Gull and 3rd winter Iceland Gull were observed at Garrison Dam in November. The Lesser Black-backed Gull continued its seasonal presence in Burleigh county. An unusual find in fall was a Whip-poor-will in Grafton. Bell's Vireo's and Blue Grosbeaks were once again found at the Beaver Bay recreation area. A female Black-throated Blue Warbler was reported from Hope, and a Prothonotary was a good find for visiting birders to Theodore Roosevelt NP. In Grand Forks, a Summer Tanager was reported in November. Hopefully the sign of an invasion, several sightings were made of Pine Grosbeaks, and White-winged Crossbill. A bird that has been absent for some time, an Evening Grosbeak was observed during a November snowstorm.
